Ready, Eddie, Go!

86 year-old Pilkington beneficiary Eddie Keating donned his walking shoes and army beret and completed the St Helens' 10 Kilometre race, on 10th March this year.

He wanted to raise money to say thank you to Whiston Hospital and Alder Hey Children's Hospital, both in Merseyside, after they saved his partner's grandson's life. 10 year-old Joey (or Joey the Legend as he is now affectionately known) had suffered a brain haemorrhage, but thankfully is now recuperating well at home. Eddie was the oldest competitor in the race and completed the course in 1 hour 28 minutes and 31 seconds, despite the appalling March weather. It's a credit to Eddie that he completed the course as many competitors failed to turn up due to the weather. Eddie was part of a 19-strong team and he personally raised £1,000.

Eddie started at Sheet Works in St Helens in 1954. He was a glass carrier for two years and worked as a 'cut off man' for a further eight. He left after the company stopped the 'flat drawn' process, but re-joined in 1964 at Triplex where he served 25 years as a fork lift truck driver/inspector, eventually retiring in 1989.

We are sure you will agree this is an achievement to inspire us all. Well done Eddie.

8 SUMMER IN THE SIXTIES
Were you there?

EDITOR'S NOTES

Hello and welcome to the summer edition of PRISM.

I wasn't sure whether to say summer edition because as I write the rain is pouring down and the forecast is for more in the days ahead. We really were spoiled last year with a beautiful summer. Maybe it's just a bit late arriving this year. I remain hopeful. Anyway the weather won't stop us from bringing you a great edition of your magazine.

I am delighted that in this issue we have some stories from around the country. A wonderful lady of 99 years who is still knitting items for charity, an ex-voluntary visitor who proudly keeps in his home the last piece of Chance glass produced, and an 86 year-old gentleman who completed a 10km race. I have to admit, hearing about Mr Keating's 10k race made me feel very lazy and I nearly had to get out my running shoes. I managed to resist though.

Since our last edition we have of course welcomed a new Royal baby. Congratulations to their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Sussex on the birth of their son Archie Harrison Mountbatten-Windsor. Best wishes to the whole family.

In this issue, I would draw your attention to the article about the national React to Red campaign that is trying to raise awareness of the potential risks of pressure ulcers, which can be very debilitating. For all of us, it is important we move around regularly, but for those people who are less mobile, the risk of developing pressure ulcers is higher. If you or someone you know, is unable to move around regularly, I suggest that you speak to your local practice nurse or GP for advice. Remember prevention is better than cure.

Can I give one last reminder to anyone who has not yet returned the General Data Protection Regulation consent form that was sent out to you last year, to return the forms to us as soon as possible. We require your consent to retain your records and continue to contact you, send the PRISM magazine, calendar and if needed, provide services to help you. If you are unsure whether you have already returned your form or if you need a new form, please contact me on 01744 742503.

It just remains for me to say have a good summer and best wishes to each and everyone one of you.

Keep those stories coming in.

Best Wishes,

Diane Swift,
Editor

Kings Norton closure

It is common knowledge that the Kings Norton plant will close and activities will move to Redditch.

The closure will take place over a phased period up until March 2020. During the recent reunion meal held at Tally Ho, Conferencing and Banqueting Centre, a request was made to Trust Fund Managing Director Paul Morgan, to arrange access to the site for retirees before the doors are closed.

Paul has been in touch with NSG and it has been agreed that such access will be made available. In order to make sensible arrangements we are requesting that any interested individuals should contact our office and make themselves known by the end of August 2019.

Anybody missing this deadline will be unable to attend. We will then work out the logistics of the visit and contact you with dates and times.

If you are interested in a site visit please contact Diane Swift, Welfare Programme Manager on 01744 742503

Fine Body Of Men Good news!

Thanks go to Mrs Halsall, Mr McDermott and Bob Bell Jnr who identified Charlie and Eric Tierney and Bob Bell on the photograph of the Pilkington Recs rugby team.

Following our article on Graduated Retirement Benefit, we have received the good news that one of our beneficiaries has received a small pay-out from Aviva. Her late husband had worked for Pilkington from 1966 to 1998.

Loch Lomond Outing

Sixty Pensioners from Scotland had a wonderful day out at Loch Lomond and The Trossachs National Park, enjoying a delightful meal at the Cruin Restaurant on the banks of Loch Lomond in Scotland.

Stunning scenery and great weather and some retail therapy contributed to a special day.

React To Red

The NHS is raising awareness regarding the importance of ensuring we all remain as mobile as possible whilst at home.

The 'React to Red' campaign highlights the ways in which we can keep our skin healthy and avoid pressure ulcer damage from sitting or lying in one position too long. In order to prevent pressure ulcers forming, we are being encouraged to move regularly and change position, every 20 to 30 minutes if possible, especially if seated for long periods. This campaign also encourages you to report any skin changes you may notice, including reddened, damaged or painful areas of skin, to a Health Care Professional or your GP. Further information on this important campaign can be found at the following web site address: www.reactoredskin.co.uk and remember prevention is better than cure!

What's in a Name?

West Midlands Welfare Officer Carol Priest received a phone call from the local hospital asking if she could visit a lady on one of their wards.

She didn't recognise the name, but was visiting a beneficiary on the same unit. Carol explained to the hospital that she didn't know the lady in question, but the nurse advised that she was very poorly, she was Church of England, and could Carol go and see her. It took a few moments for Carol to realise that they had confused her surname 'Priest' with the vocation! The nurse was very embarrassed when she realised her error.

Has anyone else had this problem with their surname?

Snooker members required!

The men's snooker group, which meets every Monday, Wednesday and Friday between 1pm and 4pm at The Pilkington Active Leisure Centre, Ruskin Drive, St Helens, is looking for some new members.

Ruskin Lodge

There is no shortage of things to do and see whilst a guest at Ruskin Lodge, the Trust's respite care centre in St Helens.

Guests "loved" a special Valentine's day harpist's performance and their creative talents were on display with egg painting and flower arranging marking Easter celebrations.

Guests have "had a ball" with a Lodge performance of Cinderella by the Grand Dame Theatre Show whilst West Lancashire Railway "steamed ahead" with a talk and slideshow. And glad rags were on display when Day Centre guests recently dressed up for the "Lodge races".

The outdoors came indoors when the Do-Little Pet Therapy showcased a miniature pony, a bottle fed lamb and small rabbit for guests to cuddle.

Trips out have included a three-course meal and music for Day Centre guests at Briars Hall, Latham whilst Ruskin Lodge volunteers were thanked with a trip to Boundary Mill, Colne enjoying a meal at the Bannisters Restaurant.

100 Years of Pilkington

In 2018, developers began building an estate of 94 houses on the site of the old village of Kirk Sandall.

This was the village acquired by Pilkington Brothers in 1919 when they identified the surrounding area as the site for their new factory. In the beginning, many of the workforce were brought over from St Helens and early in 1920, after they had started work on the factory, they also began building houses for them and their families.

At first the workers were housed in 'temporary' wooden huts – although some of them were still in use for a variety of purposes almost 30 years later! They wanted their new village to be built on modern lines and used a nationally known planner, Patrick Abercrombie, and a local architect, T.H. Johnson, to design a 'Garden Village' with houses, green spaces and allotments. So, the new village, some half-a-mile away from the old one on the other side of the road to Doncaster, was begun. As well as houses, they provided many amenities including a school, an assembly hall, a boys' club, shops and sporting facilities, including football and cricket pitches, tennis courts, a crown green bowling club and a public house - the Kirk Sandall Hotel. Until the 1950s, when the local council administration began to get involved in planning for the post-war boom, the firm provided many of the things we take for granted such as maintained roads and street lighting.

The old village was demolished in the 1970s with the exception of the listed

Needles & pins

Mrs Peggy Lappage is now 99, but still 'clicking' the pins for charity.

Since a schoolgirl Peggy has been addicted to needlework and knitting, and was always top of the class in that art. She has made dozens of beautiful embroidered tablecloths, and given most away. One sits on the Easter table of a small church each year. Her stitching was so neat; it was difficult to tell which was the wrong or right side. She hardly ever put the needle down, whether the 'sewing' or the 'knitting' needle. She says she is ashamed to say she never mastered the art of crochet, and feels a bit of a failure because of that. Her tapestry pictures were perfect, and look more like a painting brush was used rather than a needle.

When Peggy's sight began to fail, and she could no longer see well enough to do the intricate stitching she was noted for, she didn't give up, but instead got out the knitting needles again, and began knitting beautiful children's clothing, not just plain ones, but patterned as well, giving them all to various charity organisations. She even has her gardener searching the shops for bargain price wool! Now at 99, Peggy's sight is almost nil, but she still keeps the needles clicking. She can't see the patterns at all, but says she knits by the 'inner' sight she retains, and instead of following a pattern, she counts the stitches with her fingers, not her eyes, and just carries on. She says she doesn't ever intend to stop using her needles and her time for others.

Peggy's late husband Harry, who worked for Weldall Engineering in Stourbridge, was a volunteer when the Trust's Voluntary Visitors scheme was in being, and Peggy says she did needlework all the time he was out, that is when she wasn't baking cakes for her family, friends, and son's workmates. She said it was nothing for her to knock out dozens of mince pies at a time, this time using another kind of pin, the 'rolling pin'. But all of Peggy's handiwork she has given away, never accepting anything in exchange, except for the pleasure of knowing they did someone some good. 'Pins and needles' have been a large part of Peggy's life, and needles still are.

buildings of St. Oswald's Church and a threshing barn on the site of Grove Farm. Pilkington donated land in the neighbouring village of Edenthorpe for the building of a new modern parish church and St. Oswald's was closed in 1978.

When the land was designated a brownfield site for redevelopment in the early 2000s many people had forgotten, or had never known, what had been there before. The Friends of St. Oswald's Church was established in 2007 to help to protect and promote the church and they were able to find old photographs to display some of the past history that today's residents never knew.

Knowing that 2019 marked the 100th anniversary of the arrival of Pilkington Brothers The Friends have set about highlighting their contribution and intend marking this at their Open Days over the next 18 months.

The first demonstration of this is a self-guided walking trail starting at the church and making its way into the 'Garden Village' pointing out buildings from the past that are still standing and reminding people of those that no longer exist. This publication was to be launched at the first 2019 Open Day on 19th May.

The glassworks closed in 2009 and the factory site is now used by Trackwork, a construction company, but the modern day developers, Albemarle Homes, have chosen to reference the contribution Pilkington Brothers made to the history of the community by the street names. So the new residents, who have already started to move in, now find themselves living on Pilkington Road or Silica Close.

Anne Frank anniversary

Beneficiary Renee Reisler of Newton le Willows, was kindly invited to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Anne Frank at Parr Library, Parr, St Helens. Renee was born in the same year as Anne in 1929.

Anne Frank went into hiding in Amsterdam with seven members of her family during World War II. After more than two years of hiding, they were discovered and sent to concentration camps where sadly only Otto Frank, Anne's father survived. He later published the diary Anne had kept during her time in hiding.

Parr Library marked the occasion in partnership with the Anne Frank Trust UK, an education charity that empowers young people with the knowledge, skills and confidence to challenge all forms of prejudice and discrimination, using Anne Frank's powerful life story and diary as a starting point.

Renee is known to Library staff through their home delivery service and as she had also recently celebrated her 90th birthday was very honoured to be invited as a special guest to the event. She was presented with flowers and is seen pictured with Jonathan McKee, North West Project Officer for the Anne Frank Trust.

Les Bott, calendar artist extraordinaire

Les Bott celebrated his 90th birthday on the 10th July 2019 and Pilkington Family Trust would like to take this opportunity to thank Les for all his hard work in producing the lovely pictures for the Trust calendar every year.

Les first gave his pictures to the Trust for the calendar in about 1995. He has a room in his house he uses specifically as his art room and advises he first started painting when he was six or seven years old. His favourite medium is watercolour.

Les joined Pilkington Glass in 1958 and eventually retired from Lathom in 1985. He was a qualified Chartered Engineer and has travelled the world with Pilkington, visiting such far flung places as Argentina and Mexico. Les has previously run art classes both at Ruskin Lodge for the day centre guests and at the Leisure Centre in Ruskin Drive for beneficiaries.

So thank-you again Les for all your pictures and the very best of wishes on your 90th birthday.

The end... but not quite

A poignant reminder and of special interest to all former Chance Brothers employees; this small unformed piece of Amber Glass pictured here with Ray Drury, who was Chief Engineer at Chance Brothers in Smethwick, looks small and insignificant, unless you're aware of its history.

This small piece of amber glass poignantly represents the end of production for Chance Brothers Smethwick after 152 years of continuous glass production, 1824 to 1976 (Ray hastens to add that he wasn't with the company for that period of time!!).

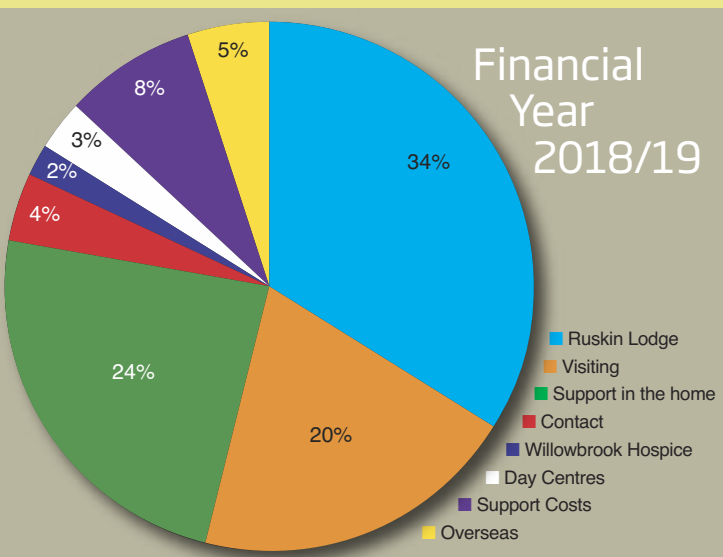

Carefully preserved and stored by Ray for all of the years since 1976, he says it is quite delicate, mainly because at this stage it was not annealed, and therefore mainly susceptible to shock. It was the very last piece of glass out of the roll plate furnaces ever produced by Chance Brothers. It is one of Ray's most precious treasures, and he guards it carefully. He fetched it out of hiding only for the short time it took to photograph.

Many of the leaving work force were eager to take and keep a piece of 'patterned glass' as a souvenir, but Ray preferred to have this seemingly insignificant piece of Amber Glass, because it spoke of the very end of production for Chance Brothers. Amber glass was apparently used for domestic glazing. It had a 'sunshine' appearance, and Ray has windows in his bungalow to remind him of this.

Ray has other mementos in his possession, but none more precious or poignant, and these he has willed to the Smethwick Heritage. There is a permanent exhibition of all things 'Chance', in a building inside of Victoria Park, Smethwick, and Ray is often approached for advice and history for the production of a monthly magazine.

Along with Tony Cartwright, also a beneficiary, he supplied author David Encill with extensive details to enable David to produce two very concise books covering the history of Chance Brothers.

It was interesting to learn that when the telephone number 1824 became available, this was taken up by Chance Brothers as their own number. That way, no one ever forgot when it all began.

Finances

The C & A Pilkington Trust has continued to provide care and support to beneficiaries throughout the financial year to 31st March 2019. A snapshot of how the income generated was spent is shown above. The income continues to be generated largely by investments.

The total amount spent in the year to 31st March 2019, on services and support to beneficiaries, was £3,463,291.

We are sure you will all agree that the ladies look splendid in their summery dresses and gloves. The picture was taken in 1960 at Trentham Gardens. Can you spot the odd one out? Yes, the gentleman with the flat cap and the arms folded wasn't with the group he just decided to join in! Were you in this group or if you recognise any of your colleagues? Please let us know.
